Voters Should Reject 5-Mill Hike in School Tax--Coming Saturday

It may seem like a harsh policy for a newspaper to accuse our public school administrators of destroying local government — but that's what the trend in tax figures shows, and that's what you'll be faced with when you go to the polls this Saturday to vote on the request of Hope School District 1-A for a 5-mill increase.

This newspaper suggests that you will be helping the schools themselves, as well as local government, if you slap down this increase by an overwhelming majority Saturday.

There is no other way this writer knows to compel public school folks to return to their primary job of building up the property assessment base which is the foundation-stone of both local government and the local schools.

The schools started a reassessment campaign here more than a year ago but there is good reason to believe they have quit.

They have got to go back to this primary job. Here's why:

Up to 1948 the schools were limited to 18 mills. County and city governments were limited—then and now—to 5 mills each. But in 1948 the people of Arkansas were persuaded (over this newspaper's objection) to abolish the 18-mill school deadline.

The obvious result since 1948 is that school millage has vaulted upward while the assessment base has deteriorated—strangling city and county governments, which are still held down by a constitutional limit of 5 mills.

Here are the local figures: Up to 1948 the Hope schools got 18 mills out of a total of 42½ mills levied against city residents—which was 42.4% of the total tax take.

Today the Hope schools are getting 35 of a total of 52 mills—which is 67.3% of the total take.

And the voters are being asked this Saturday to increase the school millage to 40 out of what would be a new total of 57—or 70% of the total take.

What about the Hempstead county assessment base, to which county and city governments are anchored at a flat 5%?

Well, back in 1929 when we had a 100-cent dollar the total valuation in the county was 9 millions.

But the 1956 valuation just now being totaled is approximately 1.1 millions—in 40-cent dollars!

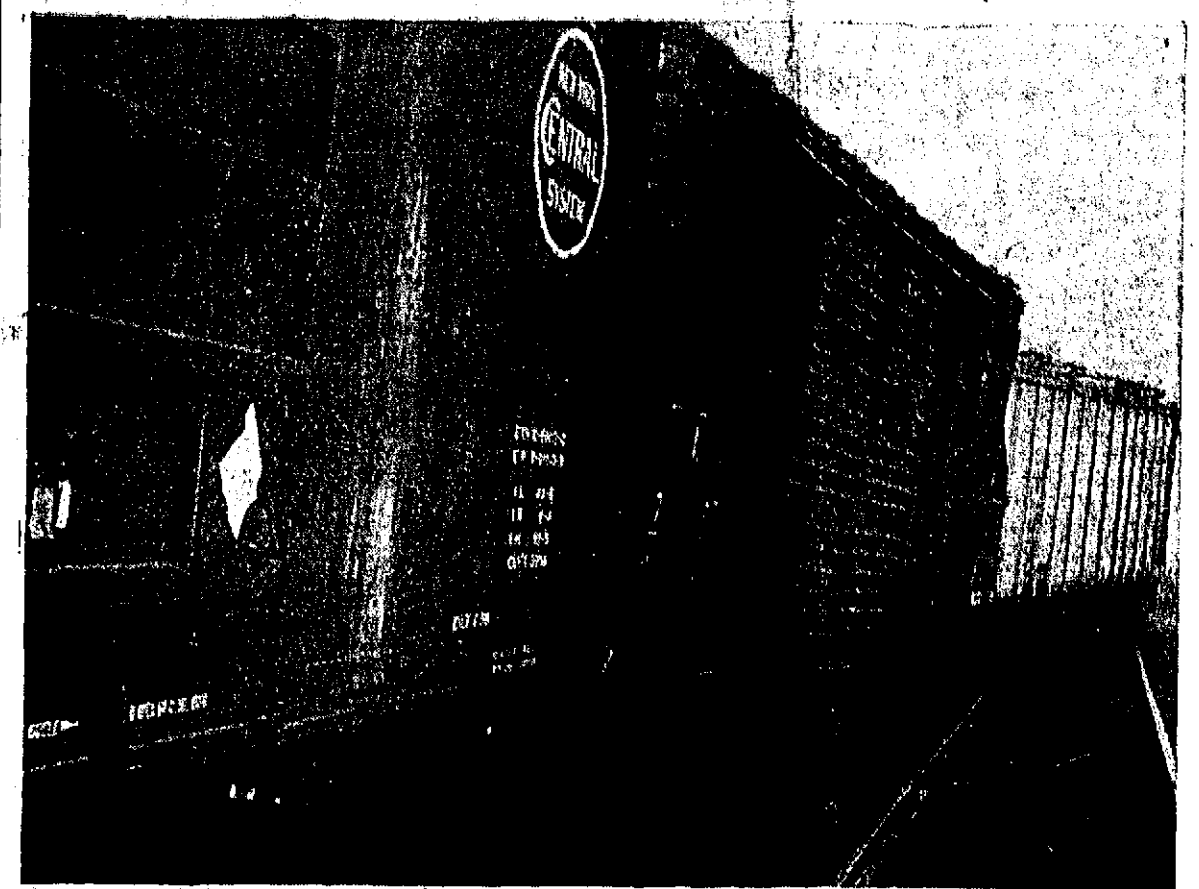

That is to say, against 1929's 9 millions our true base in adjusted dollars today is only 4.4 millions—less than half what the property in this county was valued at 28 years ago!

Do you wonder, then, that as the schools neglect and finally abandon their local assessing job and lean more and more on state funds, that the starved city and county governments go also to Little Rock and raid some of the money set up there for the schools?

The situation won't get better—but will get worse—until the school people are compelled to face up to their prime responsibility for maintaining local property assessments.

Vote down the 5-mill school increase this Saturday and thereby force the schools to resume the reassessment program on which they spent $16,000 last year and which they are now trying to abandon.

LOAN APPROVED
WASHINGTON (AP)—A $108,000 loan for Thompson, Ark. (Cahoon County) to build a waterworks system was approved today by the Community Facilities Administration.

The loan will be made only if the city is able to obtain private financing at reasonable terms. With a population of 668, Thompson is one of Arkansas' largest communities without a water system, a CFA statement said.

The water system of the Mississippi River with its tributaries exceeds 12,000 miles.

RCI Meeting Slated Here Thursday

All rural communities are invited to have representatives at the Hempstead County Rural Community Improvement meeting in the County Courtroom Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rural Community Improvement Program stands "for better homes on better farms in better communities with better churches."

The purpose of the Thursday, March 14 meeting is to help strengthen the Rural Community Improvement Program through discussions with representatives of all interested groups.

The meeting agenda includes the following: The revised 1937 Rural Community Improvement program by Miss Dorothy Peice, District Home Demonstration Agent, Agricultural Extension Service; the role of the church in Rural Community Development by a representative of the State Council of Churches; the role of cooperating groups by a representative of the Arkansas Press Association and the Arkansas Power and Light Company; discussion of plans for 1937 led by Home Demonstration Agent, Lorraine B. Wylie; and what our Rural Community is doing by local leaders from McCaskill County Agent, Oliver L. Adams, will serve as chairman.

The Rural Community Improvement Program is one of assistance to rural communities. The program assists rural communities in increasing their farm income, improving their homes, developing better churches, and obtaining better community facilities such as telephones, roads, schools, libraries, etc.

It also gives assistance in developing community recreational programs and other activities that tend to develop leadership and community pride to the extent that the community is a better and more enjoyable place in which to live.

House Finally Okays a Raise for Eldridge

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The House today approved a sizable salary increase for Highway Director Herbert Eldridge and other top highway officials and passed a $101 million highway appropriation bill.

The bill, which provides $78,017,000 for the Highway Department in 1937-38 and $85,022,000 in 1938-39, now goes to Gov. Orval Faubus. Before passing the measure, the House rejected from amendments passed yesterday which would have cut the salary figures which had been approved by the Senate for Eldridge and 30 other top highway officials and engineers.

The highway appropriation bill, as originally written, would increase Eldridge's salary $500 to $15,500, but the upper house approved an amendment to boost the figure to $18,000 and to give proportionate increase to other highway executives.

The House amendments yesterday would have knocked out the larger increase, but today's action in effect.

There was no controversy over the total amount of the highway appropriation, a large portion of which will come from federal matching funds.

The House today also reversed itself on the question of a salary increase for Education Commissioner Arch Ford. The House yesterday voted against a sizable raise for the education commissioner which had been approved by the Senate, but today the House voted to leave the raises in effect. The latter motion was made by Rep. A. M. Ledbetter of Faulkner and carried 45-27.

The motion to recede from the highway bill amendment and leave Eldridge's salary figure at $18,000 was offered by Rep. Paul Van Dusen of Perry and it carried by an overwhelming vote.

Van Dusen said that the Highway Commission wanted some leeway in fixing salaries. Most of the brief discussion concerned the raises for highway engineers.

The Education Department appropriation also was brought up for consideration, but Rep. Chadd L. Durrett of Union objected and it was temporarily set aside as a controversial measure.

A few House members yesterday made an unsuccessful attempt to cut the salaries which the Senate had set for University of Arkansas President John T. Caldwell, Head Coach Jack Mitchell and other university officials and faculty members.

A sizeable stack of budget bills remained untouched when the House adjourned late yesterday.

Rep. Marion H. Crunk of Little River County introduced the amendment to cut the salary of Eldridge. He said that the $8,000 salary of the highway director in every state except New York.

Rep. Ray S. Smith Jr., of Garland said that he thought it was a mistake to cut the director's salary and an even bigger mistake to put the salaries of the other engineers in view of the competition for qualified technical men.

The amendment cut Chief Engineer Ward Goodman's pay from a proposed $13,333 to $12,000, and other engineers were cut back proportionately.

The amendment to leave Ford's salary at the present $3,400 instead of the Senate-approved figure of $9,600 was introduced by Rep. Chadd L. Durrett of Union and adopted after only brief discussion.

U. S. Proposals on Mid-East Sent to UN

By WALTER LOGAN

UP Staff Correspondent

President Eisenhower disclosed today the United States has submitted new proposals designed to prevent the outbreak of another shooting war in the Middle East.

The President, answering news conference questions, said the proposals had been submitted to the United Nations which, Mrs. Eisenhower said, bears chief responsibility for settling the Israel-Arab dispute.

He did not disclose the nature of the proposals which must seek an acceptable middle ground between Israel's determination to fight rather than allow Egypt to return to the Gaza strip and Egypt's U. N.-supported intention to resume civil administration of the strip within a few days.

The U. S. proposals were submitted to U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld who plans to leave Saturday for the Middle East.

P. T. Staggs, 84, Local Attorney, Dies

P. T. Staggs, aged 84, life long resident of Hempstead County died in a local hospital early Wednesday. Mr. Staggs had practiced law in Hope for the past forty years and was a member of the Arkansas Bar Association.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Autrey Foster of Hope and one grandson.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday, at Oakcrest Chapel with Dr. L. T. Lawrence officiating. Burial will be in Macedonia Cemetery.

British Girls Try to Solve Their Problems

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—A group of British girls who measure more than 40 inches around the chest have banded together in an effort to solve their growing problems.

We plan to write to clothes manufacturers and put forward our troubles, pretty brunette Lee Anderson 44—23-37 said today.

Applicants for membership in the Over 40 Inch Club must only pass the tape measure test:

I have a 40-28-36 figure! sighed Marypree Browne, organizer of the club. . . . and manufacturers' just do not cater to girls like me.

She explained that despite that over 40 in the club's name, precisely 40-inch bosoms are also eligible for membership.

Unfortunately, she added, we can't lower our standards and take in the 39s. But their problems are not as great as ours. Lots of clothes makers think about the 30s.

Clothes which do fit us are too motherly for teenagers, and if you want to get the perfect fit you have to pay the earth.

Swimsuits and underwear are also a headache! climbed in Joy Adams 41½-28-38.

Most of the bras that fit me are pink satin and strictly for matrons.

Joy said garments designed for the over 40s are for older women with figures as generous around the waist as round the chest:

Sack-like effects on us!

President Anderson reported subjects other than 4 clothes came up at the organizational meeting — would whistles, for one thing.

We don't really mind them, said Joyce Gardner. What girl would But they can be monotonous and at times embarrassing. However, we look no action.

Batesville Folks Rename Street

BATESVILLE, (UP)—Attention devotees of the pun: The Batesville City Council passed a resolution last night assigning the name Bear-ette to a residential street. The council also ordered the erection of a marker where it will read: Gwyn and Bear-ette.

Living near the intersection is W. T. Baldwin, Jr., an auditor for the Internal Revenue (income tax) Service.

Senate Votes Bonus for Teachers

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Senate gave overwhelming approval today to an immediate $70 bonus to each teacher in the state.

The measure passed 27-2 although Gov. Orval Faubus has stated emphatically that he will veto the measure. Faubus is opposed to the measure on the ground that the new program of increased aid for schools is scheduled to take effect next fall and money collected at present is needed for construction at various state institutions.

Proponents of the measure have said that teachers have been led to believe that they will get an immediate increase.

The Senate defeated a measure which would permit sellers of cigarettes within 500 feet of a state line to change the same amount of tax collected in the adjoining state. The vote was 21 to 6 against the bill, which was sponsored by Rep. Bryan J. McCallen of Clay County. It had passed the House 84-0.

The Senate voted 24-8 to pay the $65,000 for 7,000 bushels of cotton seed which Brooks loaned to the state in 1919. The controversial claim has been approved four times by past Legislatures but vetoed by the governor.

A $14,000 claim was paid by the state to Brooks in 1923 but this amount later was deemed insufficient.

Strong Appeal for Donation to Red Cross

A strong appeal for support of the annual Red Cross membership campaign in Hempstead county was made in speeches before Hope Kiwanis club yesterday by Mrs. George H. Wright of Hope, campaign drive chairman, and Don Clark of Camden, district manager.

The speakers brought out that if the county's quota of $417.00 was raised this year it will be the first time in five years.

The high point during that period of time was in 1954 when the county raised 89 percent of its quota, and the low figures show that in 1953 and 1956 the county reached only 41 percent of its quota.

A second tabulation of funds was made today and a total of $409.67 has been raised to date. Some 45 volunteer workers were urged by Mrs. Wright to step up the drive which will end on April 1.

Each ward in Hope will be canvassed by workers, and all persons are urged to contribute.

Ward 3 has been organized with Mrs. Steven Bader as captain. Her workers are: Mrs. T. D. Jones, Mrs. C. C. McNeill, Mrs. George Pock, Mrs. Comer Hoy, Mrs. James LaGrossa, Mrs. Reid Clark, Mrs. Ted Furtle and Mrs. Ched Hall.

Norman Moor was awarded a certificate of "Kiwanian of the Week," and was praised by Chairman Frank Douglas for his years of work with the youth program at K-Park and for his efforts in promotion activities of the Third District Livestock Show.

PTA to Hear About Juvenile Delinquency

Prosecuting Attorney Travis Mathis will discuss "How to Prevent Juvenile Delinquency" at a meeting of the Junior-Senior High PTA Thursday, March 14, at 3 Los Angeles p. m. in the Junior High Auditorium.

Local Citizens to Hear Plan in Detail on 21st

A number of interested citizens in a called dinner meeting last night discussed the possibility of adopting a City Management form of government for the City of Hope. The city attorney had been requested to study the recent Act of the Arkansas Legislature on this subject, and made a report to the persons attending the meeting.

Under this plan of government the people of Hope would elect seven men as City Directors, to be known as the Board of Directors. This Board would then employ a person to be known as a City Manager and set the amount of his compensation. This City Manager would serve at the will of the Board of Directors. The seven Directors would serve without compensation, and it would be necessary for their nomination as a candidate that a petition be filed signed by 50 qualified electors of the City requesting their nomination.

It was felt by those present at the meeting that this form of government would possibly be a progressive step for the city to take at this time; and decide that a public hearing on the matter would be helpful to the people of Hope in deciding the question. A motion was adopted calling a public meeting to be held at the City Hall Auditorium at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday night March 21.

Dr. Charles F. Spencer, president of East Central College of Ada, Okla., a leader in the movement for City Management form of government and a person who has assisted 30 or more cities to adopt such a plan, will explain the experiences of cities under the City Manager Plan.

It was stressed at the meeting that this area is on the threshold of an industrial expansion and growth, and it was felt that possibly the City Manager Plan for Hope might be of great assistance in expediting location of industries in this area.

All citizens are urged to attend this Town Hall Meeting and discuss the merits of the City Manager Plan for our City.

Mrs. Butler, 81, Dies Tuesday at Nashville

Prober Claims Union Books Falsified

By HERBERT FOSTER

And John A. Goldsmith

WASHINGTON (UP)—A Senate Labor Rackets' investigation charged today the Teamsters union falsified its books.

Sen. Earl B. Muntz (R-S.D.), a member of the rackets committee, pronounced on an entry in the books of Teamsters Joint Council 37 which listed payment of a $24,150 hotel bill for Thomas E. Maloney, Portland, Ore. The check was listed under expense allowances of union officers and delegate.

Muntz said the books had obviously been falsified. Either the books had been deliberately falsified, he said, or the union was paying Maloney for his activities in Portland, which he believed to be racketeering activities.

The committee has heard testimony that Maloney was one of two Seattle racketeers sent to Portland by union officials to take over vice and gambling.

Mikesell testified that certain financial records subpoenaed by the committee have gradually been destroyed because a union vault was terribly crowded for space. He said all records available have been supplied to the committee. He agreed under questioning that those records are, for the most part, contained in one Red-trimmed account book.

Entertainment Between Acts of Junior Play

Baton twirling and a pantomime will be featured between acts of the Hope High School Junior play, "Come Out of the Closet," March 15.

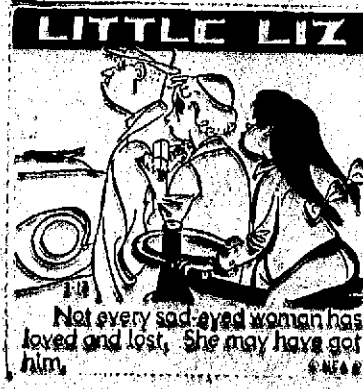

The twirlers are Jo Ann Huett, Kitty Jones, Carlene Fuller, Mary Eppler, Jeannette Fincher, and Mary Ann Hall.

Jack King, assisted by Morris Cottingham, Don Lloyd, and Butch Graham will exhibit their talent in a Calypso melody.

The business manager of the play are Diane Helms and Bill Lawrence. Jimmy Porterfield and Danny Monts are chairmen of the stage committee; Lola Cagle and Charlotte Sasser are in charge of make-up. Judy Arnold, chairman, and the other publicity committee members have made posters, written new stories and radio announcements.

Shortage of Farm Credit Is Noted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is receiving complaints from widespread farming areas that there is a shortage of credit for farmers spring opening needs.

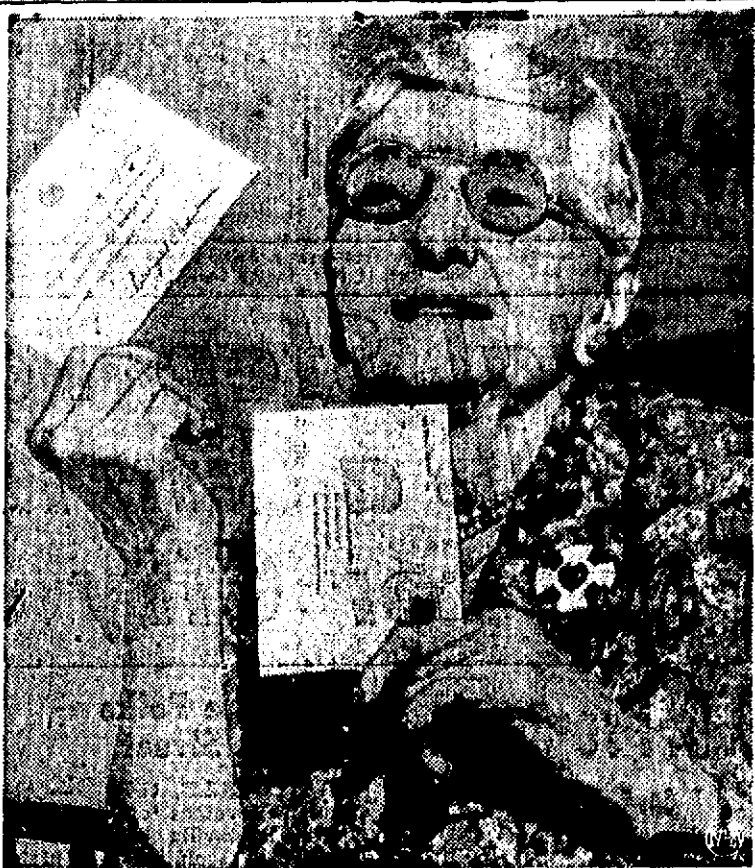

The complaints are being accompanied by requests that the agriculture department step in and fill the credit gap with its emergency loan programs. Many farmers depend on short-term loans to purchase seed, fertilizers and other production needs.

The department already has set up emergency loan programs for all of Mississippi and North Dakota and parts of Maine, North Carolina, South Carolina, and South Dakota, because of a shortage of loan money there.

These loan operations are separate from emergency loans made in areas where farmers have suffered substantial losses from drought, floods, freezes or other natural causes. In such areas there may not necessarily be a shortage of credit, but an inability of farmers to get loans because they have no resources to back up loans by banks or other private lending agencies.

Officials said the shortage of farm credit in many areas is a result of the tight money market and the ability of most lenders to invest in better-paying and safer enterprises.

Farm law authorizes the department to make emergency loans where there is a need for farm credit that cannot be met for a temporary period by banks and other lending agencies. These loans bear three per cent interest—which is only about half the commercial rate for short-term farm loans.

Negro Tells of Attempted Holdup

DARDANELLE, (AP) — A 61-year-old Negro man told police today that his throat was slashed by two white men in a robbery attempt here last night.

Deputy Sheriff Vernon Buck Ferguson said that the Negro, August Polk, was in serious condition at a Russellville hospital.

Ferguson said Polk told him that two white men accosted him near a cafe in Dardanelle and that one held a gun on him, and demanded his money. Ferguson quoted Polk as saying that when he told the other slashed his throat.

Salaries of some 150 University of Arkansas staff members would have been reduced under the figures the Senate proposed if the amendment to the U of A amendment had been adopted. President Caldwell's salary had been increased from $15,000 to $17,500 by the Senate and Coach Mitchell had been raised to $15,000.

After beating the proposal to cut the salaries, the House approved the $5,899,000-a-year budget for the university.

Smith succeeding in attaching amendment to the omnibus construction bill to provide an audit of state, district and county livestock shows. The bill appropriates additional construction funds for the State Hospital, the proposed Children's Colony and other institutions.

The House completed legislative action on a $4,500,000 annual appropriation for the Median Center.

A Senate measure to appropriate funds for a state mid-measure farm was defeated.

The House approved three proposed constitutional amendments for the 1958 election ballot. The amendments were the ones endorsed by a Senate-House committee. The proposals would prohibit the state from levying an ad valorem property tax, give the legislators a pay increase and permit counties and cities to levy a 5-mill tax to raise funds to buy industrial bonds provided voters approve at a local option election.

An effort to crack down on easy divorces in Arkansas was squashed by the Senate for the second time in less than a week.

The new proposal, by Sen. M. Morrell Gathright of Pine Bluff, would have required six months of residence in Arkansas before the granting of a divorce.

A law enacted earlier this session kept the three months residence requirement but removed the requirement that parties involved in a divorce must prove intent to reside in Arkansas permanently.

The other attempt to tighten the divorce law was killed by a parliamentary maneuver last Friday.

Gathright said yesterday that administration men opposed his bill. Sen. Guy H. Jones of Conway, an attorney, said sponsors of a tighter divorce bill were just trying to make it more difficult for lawyers to earn a living.

The vote against the tighter divorce proposal was 12-11.

The Senate also: Passed a bill permitting city councils to regulate the Sunday operation of business establishments. This could have the effect of repealing the state's so-called blue laws within city limits.

Defeated a measure to abolish the state Girls Training School at Alexander and send the inmates to a regional institution. After the vote the sponsor, Sen. C. Van Hays of Benton, withdrew a companion bill to turn over the school property to the Arkansas Children's Colony.

Defeated a bill to create a division of the Revenue Department to test weight and measuring devices in businesses.

Defeated a bill increasing the pay for election officials in general elections from $4 to $8 daily.

Amended a bill to pay teachers a $75 bonus immediately to make certain it will not interfere with scheduled teacher salary increases next fall. The bonus measure was thereby delayed a day, but its future is academic since Gov. Orval Faubus has said he will veto it.

Men Can't Tell About Middle-aged Spread?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW ORK (AP) — Do you know how to tell whether you have middle-aged spread?

A woman always seems able to, but a man can't—or else his vanity won't let him.

If a friend tells him at lunch, Joe, you better cut down on the cheesecake, you're getting middle-aged spread," he simply doesn't believe it. At home that night Joe pulls in his stomach, until his face gets purple, looks at himself in the mirror, and says, Not bad. That guy at lunch must've been trying to kid me.

But here is one thing that doesn't kid anybody unless its made of rubber—and that's a tape measure.

Dr. Thomas K. Cureton, director of the Physical Fitness Research Laboratory, has figured out an easy way to detect middle-aged spread.

And Dr. Cureton, who also acts as a health consultant for Cooper's Inc., makers of underwear—they want to keep middle-aged men alive longer because dead men don't buy underwear—warns you'd better do something about middle-aged spread as soon as you detect it.

Many middle-aged men regard dieting as the only solution to the problem of middle-aged spread.

Dr. Cureton says a proper diet, of course, is helpful. But he says that the middle-aged man also has to grunt his way out of his swivel chair and take proper exercises to get real results.

It has been very impressive to see how men and women above 40 years of age have been able to improve their fitness by taking up physical training," he adds.

But Dr. Cureton feels that the ordinary social-recreational types of casual exercise obtained in a few casual games of bowling, golf, valley ball, table tennis, or shuffleboard won't do the trick.

Regular exercises with continuous rhythm do more to improve the circulation.

Here are Dr. Cureton's suggestions for getting rid of middle-aged spread and restoring lost muscle tone:

Reduce starchy and fried foods in the diet, and eat more fruits, vegetables and protein foods.

Breathe more deeply, try to stay untensed, move parts of the body frequently, even while sitting.

Fifteen to 50 full knee bends are excellent. As you breathe deeply, draw the abdominal muscles in toward the spine as far as you can with each breath.

Walk two miles each day with a swinging stride, or swim 200 to 400 yards, or cycle five to 10 miles.

In a month your middle-aged spread should be gone. But if you quit your diet and cease exercising, in another month that tire around your tummy will be right back again.

Bomb Scare

at Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Detroit and Cleveland.

TWA officials swung into action after an anonymous young male caller telephoned this threat.

There's a bomb on your plane. You better get it off. Then the caller hung up.

Since no particular plane was singled out as the bomb target, TWA officials took all precautions.

American Airlines, on the basis of a telephoned threat received by its Philadelphia office, had one of its twin-engine Convairs searched as it landed here last night on a flight from Boston. A woman caller said 12 sticks of dynamite had been placed on an American Convair flying from Boston to New York.

Three Delta Airlines planes were searched last night at Newark, Houston, Tex., and Charlotte, N. C. The airline reported it had received a telephoned bomb threat at its Philadelphia office, saying that a bomb was aboard a plane bound for Newark.

Ike Contends Tax Cut Up to Congress

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he will be as helpful as possible but it is up to Congress to determine how and whether the administration's $71,800,000,000 budget can be cut.

The President also told a news conference he has abandoned tentative plans to go to Florida for his health.

He said that instead he plans to leave probably tomorrow night for Bermuda by Navy cruiser.

Eisenhower will open four days of talks in Bermuda with British Prime Minister Harold MacMillan March 2. The President said he plans a leisurely cruise to Bermuda.

Barring any last minute change in plans, Eisenhower will sail from Norfolk, Va., tomorrow night.

Eisenhower's remarks regarding budget cutting were in reply to a request for comment on House passage yesterday of a resolution asking the President to point out where the administration's budget can be cut substantially.

The resolution, merely a statement of the House's position, has no force of law. The vote was 218-178, with most Democrats for it and most Republicans against.

Asked what he plans to do about that House call for advice, Eisenhower said anew that he would have no objection to re-examining the budget.

DOROTHY DIX HE MAKES HER PICK UP TABS

Dear Dorothy Dix: Is it proper for an engaged girl if 17 to pay for movies, skating and gas? My boy friend tells me it's up to the girl to pay for everything. He's 19 and has never worked a day. I'm beginning to wonder how he paid for the ring and the clock radio he gave me for Christmas.

Boots

Dear Boots: Do your girl friends have to pay for entertainment when they date? Did your mother have to pay your dad to take her out? Do you know any precedent for what you are doing?

Instead of wondering about the present you have, find out how your boy friend got the money to pay for them. I doubt very much if they belong to him, or you, so better return them.

Throw this fish right back in the water and stop being a sucker.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Two years ago I started writing to a soldier whom I liked very much. Later we broke off, and I met the wonderful boy who is now my fiancé. I saved all the soldier's letters and would like to know whether I don't think it necessary to show I should destroy or return them, the into my fiancé. Do you?

T.G.

Dear I.G.: Burn the letters. Don't throw them away with the rest of the rubbish — they might fall into other hands. It isn't necessary to have your fiancé read them. He knows you had other boy friends, but he's the winner.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Although I'm only 15, I'm in love with Sonny. We were good friends once, but now he ignores me.

Woman's Bond Set in Spa Shooting

HOT SPRINGS (AP) Miss Charlotte Sides, 34, today was bound over to the Garland County Grand Jury in the fatal shooting of a 62-year-old Ripley, Tenn., tourist court operator.

Municipal Judge M. C. Lewis, who conducted a preliminary yesterday, set bond at $5,000.

Newton J. Henderson, owner of tourist courts here and in Tennessee, died March 5, several days after he had been shot at his tourist court here.

Miss Sides pleaded self defense and said that she fired two shots into the wall from a .32 caliber revolver to frighten Henderson and then fell to the floor before firing the third shot, which he said struck Henderson. She said that Henderson had chased her into a room in the tourist court.

Henderson's daughter, Mrs. F.A. ports, gave a different version of the shooting. She said that the first shot hit Henderson and that two shots were fired later as she suffled with Miss Sides.

Police testified that Miss Sides had bruised marks on her throat and knees.

Judge Lewis said that he waited until today to send the case to the grand jury so that he would have time to consult a doctor concerning the angle of the bullet which entered Henderson's abdomen.

The Rare Adventure by BERNARD FERGUSON

THE STORY: In search of traces of a famous, half-mythical relation who left Scotland to become a leader of Barbary pirates, Allan Lark and his wife Mollie have gone to Tunisia. In spite of trouble in Senegal, the ancient home of the pirate Al Merhamis, the are determined to go on.

CHAPTER III

The auto-rail turned out to be two curious railway carriages joined together by a contraption which looked like a spatchcocked Bassel-Lowke model engine, and which made a noise halfway between a motorcar and tube train. Allan and Mollie were the only European passengers; all the others were Arab. It carried them swiftly first through highly cultivated farmlands, then over a pass in the hills, and then through a series of small semi-desert towns, each of which it stopped Mollie, still knitting, showed her first real emotion since leaving Lark at the enormous number of people, of all ages, who were suffering from eye trouble. She was also disturbed at the overloading of the donkeys. When Allan pointed out to her that the women were even more grossly overloaded, she merely grunted: "More fools they. I wouldn't stand for it."

Just before half past one, they were running between houses and the sea, with the tall green palms of the oasis rising at the back of the houses. The little engine squealed on its whistle, and dozens of small boys skipped along to welcome the daily arrival of the train at the tiny station. A riot of porters hurried themselves at the Larks, but were cuffed aside by a stout kavass in a gold-embroidered red shirt and dark blue Turkish trousers, who represented the Hotel Sidi Ibrahim, just across the street — the only hotel in Nail catering for Europeans.

Luncheon over, and a brief concession to the Custom of the Country having been made, in the shape of a siesta, they hired through the hotel a two-horsed victoria and a French-speaking guide, and set off on a trip round the oasis. The Larks had to forego the swim which they had promised themselves among the steep combes along the beach, for by the time they got back to the hotel it was almost dark. Supper was early; the bus for Marsa Yakoub was due to start at 8:30 a.m.; they had had a late night and a long hot and dusty day; and soft was with little reluctance that they sought an early bed.

Despite all the warnings about Nail, nobody had shown any curiosity about their arrival. But when he saw in the cold light of morning, the bus in which they were to make the three hours journey to Marsa Yakoub, he almost wished that he had made himself known to the local commander. For the bus was as old as the hills, with a battered radiator; Allen's and Mollie's suit cases were perched on its roof, lashed here crazily with a mixture of sacks, boxes, vegetables, a sewing machine, and a myriad other improbable articles; and inside was already chockablock with Arab humanity.

Allan, in despair, went back into the hotel, and asked the fa Greek manager whether or not the fact that he had booked his tickets in Tunis entitled him to reject a couple of Arabs in favor of him and Mollie; and the kavass, who had been waiting for him, rushed out to see if he could get a large American car drawn up at the hotel, out of which got a tall, thin Spanish-looking man with a hook nose. At a quarter past 7 the car came past again driven this time by a French officer in a light blue kepi, the naive soldier sitting beside him. And at last, for no apparent reason, the bus driver decided to start.

There was one halt at a large white village, where the driver again regaled himself on coffee. Soon a sea came sweeping back from the east to meet the road, which now ran along just above the beach. The sun was climbing fast, too bright to look into; but if one glanced to the eastward it was possible to see the shadow of an island; and the driver, jerking a thumb towards it, spoke to Allan for the first time:

"The sound which separated Senegal from the mainland gradually narrowed, and soon it was possible to see a large white village on the other side. The road ended in a cobbled stone jetty, beside which lay a boat about 40 feet long; it had a long, curved, whip-looking spar for a gaff, a broad deck forward, a small house a well. Stacked on the deck were round tin barrels, more of which were being rolled on board down a couple of planks.

A large car swept into view over the brow of the dunes and down he cutting; and as it nosed its way on to the jetty they rec-

Nasser Won't Abide by Any World Court

CAIRO (AP) — President Nasser says he is not sure whether he will abide by any world Court ruling which would allow Israeli ships to pass through the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba.

Nasser's view appeared in a Cairo newspaper even as Israel announced she would ignore any World Court decisions on cases brought up by the Arab states. Israel's official gazette carried this statement over the signature of Foreign Minister Golda Meir.

The Nasser interview, which originally appeared in the Indian weekly Blitz, conflicted with earlier reports that Egypt would be willing to let the international tribunal decide whether the Tiran Strait and Gulf of Aqaba are international or territorial waters. Such a ruling would decide Israel's right to access to the south Israeli port of Eilat.

Egyptian officials have said flatly Israeli shipping will not be allowed through the Suez Canal because Egypt technically is still at war with Israel. The 1888 Suez Canal convention permits the country controlling the waterway to close it to enemies.

Cairo claim that the Tiran Strait is Egyptian territorial water may be tested soon. Reliable sources in Jerusalem said three American tankers loaded with crude oil would sail through the Gulf to Eilat in April. A showdown might come if Egyptian forces have returned to the U. N.-occupied gulf coast by then.

Israeli authorities hope to complete by next month an eight-inch pipeline to funnel oil north from Eilat for transshipment, bypassing the Suez Canal.

A Suez Canal Authority spokesman said Egypt probably would give the U. N. salvage fleet permission tomorrow to start removal of the sunken tug Edgar Bonnet, which virtually blocks the channel near midpoint.

U. S. Lt. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, chief of the salvage fleet, said it would take three or four weeks to remove the Edgar Bonnet.

The salvage force is also awaiting Cairo approval to haul off the 1,461-ton Egyptian frigate Abu-kir, which lies four miles from the southern end of the canal. Nasser had held up the salvage operation until Israel pulled out of its big American car they had seen pull up outside the hotel this morning, with the all, thin man, still at the wheel. Under the general direction of the skipper, the boat crew adjusted the wood planks which had been used for rolling the barrels on board, so as to fit the wheels of the car. The driver edged his car on to them.

School Program Is Not Near Solution

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's federal aid to education program has tough days ahead, with a good chance it will end up this year where it did in 1956: in the soup.

All the forces which helped kill it last year are still here, plus this one: the angry mood among many businessmen and many members of Congress against high government spending. They want cuts.

What set them off was Eisenhower's request to Congress to approve his budget of $11,800,000,000, a record for peacetime.

The budget includes funds for a start of Eisenhower's four-year program of $1,300,000,000 in federal aid to states to help them build classrooms. That would be new.

But when Congress is looking for places to cut spending, it's generally yeasier politically to skip over a new program than to wipe out an existing one. The Eisenhower administration recognizes the trouble ahead.

Main ball carrier for the administration in this fight will have to be Secretary of Welfare Folsom. Eisenhower can hardly be said to have put up a vigorous fight for his federal aid to education program last year.

This year maybe it will be different. Over the weekend Folsom ripped into the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, which has been trying to build up sentiment among businessmen not only against the budget but against federal aid to education.

Folsom, a former director of the Chamber, accused it of "seriously misleading and inaccurate statements" on the aid to education program. This is the administration's position:

Federal aid to states is needed because there is a "critical shortage of classrooms; there are 214 million more schoolchildren than present schools were originally built to hold; at least 80,000 new classrooms are needed to take care of the overflow; and at least 79,000 new classrooms are needed to replace those now unfit but in use."

The Chamber argues that there is no emergency, and that the Eisenhower program is "unwise and unnecessary." It suggested federal aid for classroom building is just a first step toward government control of education.

This is an old argument against federal aid to schools, sometimes called the nose-of-the-camel-under-the-tent view.

In 1956 an overwhelming majority of the 1,800 delegates to Eisenhower's White House conference on education approved use of federal money to help build schools.

Bunt neither that nor Eisenhower's urging in 1956 was enough to persuade Congress to approve a federal aid to education program. The whole project got lost in the House in a fight over segregation.

There Rep. Adam Powell, Negro Democrat from New York, with the help of Eisenhower's own Republicans, attached to the aid bill in 1956 an amendment which said none of the money could be used to build segregated schools. The bill was shelved.

Powell is set to try to put the same 1956 amendment back on the 1957 bill if it gets the floor. It hasn't reached the floor for debate yet. It's still in the committee which has been holding hearings and listening to pretty much the same people it heard before.

The dense fogs in England are caused when the warm waters of the Gulf Stream come in contact with the cold winter air of the north.

all her forces from Egypt and the Gaza Strip. The withdrawal was completed Friday.

In his interview with the Indian weekly, Nasser also was quoted as saying Russia seems "more appreciative of the Egyptian position than does the United States." Nasser added that he was not asking economic aid from the Soviet Union as he would not be accused of playing one side against the other.

Woman Hid Robber, Put on Probation

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A woman who said she was married to Charles E. (Bulldog) Ranels, convicted bank robber, told Federal Judge Thomas C. Trimble yesterday that she did not report him as a fugitive because "I'm in love with him."

Opal Oneida May, 32, who was arrested along with Ranels when FBI agents raided her country store near Pine Bluff, Ark., last Dec. 16, drew three years probation on a charge of harboring a fugitive. She had pleaded guilty. Before his capture, Ranels now serving a 30-year term for two armed robberies in Kentucky and one in Arkansas — was one of the FBI's 10 most wanted men.

Opal May told the judge that she and Ranels were married in September last year at Greenville, Miss. She said he used the name of "Robert Harold," and she knew he was a wanted man.

Judge Trimble told her after his ruling, "I want you to be careful who you associate with."

She promised to heed his words. Ranels admitted robbing the Commercial Loan & Trust Co. office at Monticello of $11,588 in January 1956.

New Supply of Films for Television

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — How long will the supply of first-rate motion pictures last as first-runs on television?

Ely Landau believes there is a backlog which should last for two to three years. Landau should know. He is president of a fourth television network which has come into being as something to be reckoned with.

Everybody knows there are three TV networks. The fourth, headed by Landau, is National Telefilm Associates, Inc. Three years ago it did $700,000 worth of business. In this fiscal year it will do about 18 million. How does it operate. For example:

Beginning the first week in April, 129 TV stations will present the 20th Century-Fox film "Suez," starring Tyrone Power and Loretta Young. Most will show it Saturday or Sunday evening.

"Suez" is the first of 208 features NTA acquired from 20th Century-Fox. There are many excellent ones: "The Grapes of Wrath," "The Razor's Edge," "Leave Her to Heaven." NTA then obtained two national sponsors for its 30-minute weekly features, the package-feature and commercials — was sold to the 129 NTA network members.

Feature movies on television have become big entertainment and big business in the past three years. When NTA first began acquiring the films of J. Arthur Rank and David O. Selznik for TV it was paying $10,000 a fee.

"LOVELY TO LOOK AT"

tute. Today its paying as high as $110,000.

The TV networks frankly fear the competition of an organization like NTA. But Landau views it otherwise.

"An individual station can compete with Mary Martin in 'Peter Pan,' — he said — unless its programming costs are spread among other independent stations to present a first-rate show. That's what NTA is doing. It's a healthy competitive situation."

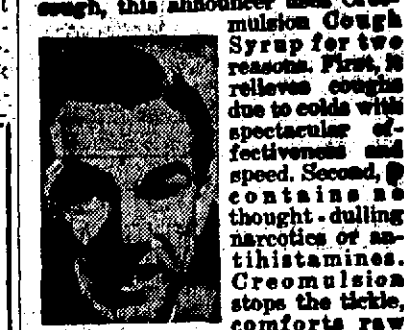

"I believe that feature films are how the most powerful programming on television," he says. "We have two or three years of first-rate films for TV first-runs. Then we'll have to revert to greater dependence on hour and half-hour films."

In addition to supplying feature films, NTA now has 10 TV program series in production. By fall it hopes to be offering stations five to six hours a week of programming.

State Highway 7, in Arkansas from Harrison south to Hot Springs National Park is probably Arkansas' outstanding scenic highway. It crosses the Ozark and Ouachita Forest and passes many points of interest, including Marble Falls, about 10 miles south of Harrison and Diamond Cave at Jespers.

Announcer avoids coughing on air

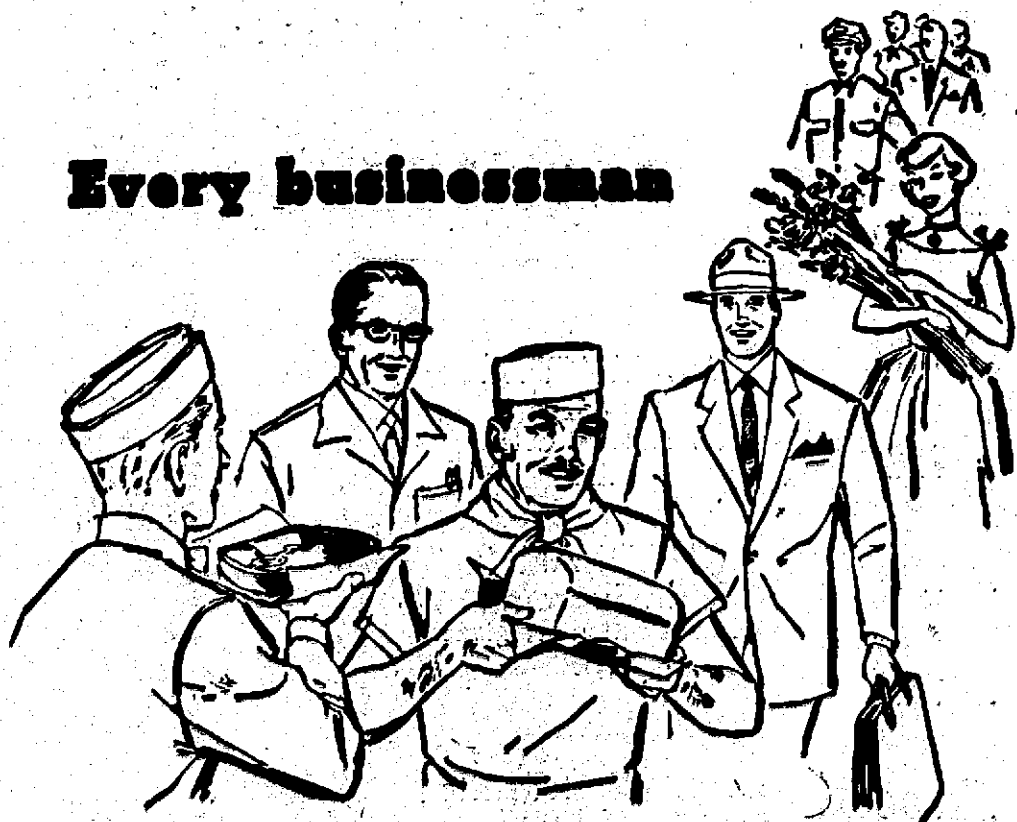

At the slightest threat of a cough, this announcer uses Creomulsion Cough Syrup for two reasons. First, it relieves coughing due to colds with its soothing action. Second, it contains a thought-dulling narcotic of an antihistamine. Creomulsion stops the tickle, comforts raw membranes, clears breathing passages, relaxes tension. Local Church Makes Trip To Texas
The Pastor, Rev. J. E. Coby, and the members of the Senior Choir of Loneoke Baptist Church made a trip to Clarksville, Texas Friday night March 8, where they were guests of one of the Churches there.

Rev. Coby delivered the sermon, and the Choir furnished the music. This service was one of a series conducted by the church. The offering was in the amount of $50.00, which was reported to be the largest amount raised to that date.

Loneoke anticipates a return visit from the church at Clarksville.

Evangelist A. L. Blake of Prescott, Ark., will be guest speaker at Loneoke Baptist Church Sunday night, March 10.

Forestry Demonstrations Were Conducted
Twenty-two (22) farmers, vocational agriculture teachers, and vocational agriculture students attended the forestry demonstrations held on Mr. Shep Jackson's farm Friday, March 8.

Mr. Dean Wallace, Extension Forest Products Marketing Specialist of the University of Arkansas conducted the demonstrations on "Selective Cutting of Timber" and "How To Estimate Standing Timber."

The demonstrations got on the way by Mr. Jackson telling what caused him to become interested in forestry, and from there Mr. Wallace began to relate the importance of good tree farming. He asked the group this question — "How many of you would sell a cotton crop to a buyer before you had picked it?" Then he went on to say that many farm people are guilty of selling their timber to a buyer who walks up and says, "I'll give you so much for your timber," and the person usually says, "That's a deal."

Mr. Wallace explained the use of the bilkmore stick in estimating timber. He demonstrated how to find the diameter breast high, and how to determine the number of board feet or cubic feet in a tree. He further pointed out that by finding the number of board feet or cubic feet on one tenth of an acre and multiplying that total by 10 would give the estimated footage on an acre.

During the thinking demonstration, he pointed out in a thickly populated stand of trees a good rule to follow is to leave the trees about the diameter of one tree plus four feet.

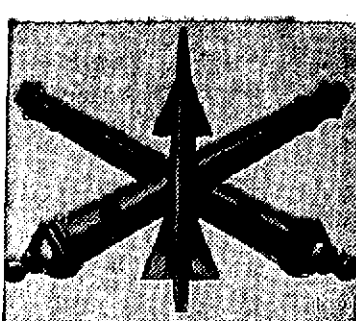

According to Mr. C. B. Smith, Assistant County Agent for Negroes, the farmers were amazed to find a tree that was five inches in diameter almost as old as a tree twelve inches in diameter.

Big Power to Seek 2nd Win at Oaklawn

HOT SPRINGS — Emil Denemarks Big Power, winner of one of his two starts here, leads a field of eight entered in the 2,300 Little Rock Purse, spring feature on today; race program at Oaklawn Park.

Stated to oppose the 5-year-old horse in the 6-furlong event were the E. K. Carey entry of Ban Sen and Miss Quibu, Keindorfer and Boyd's Die Valkyrie, Charles Fritz's M. G. Skid, Olen Sledges English Lad and M. H. Van Bergs Doc Moorman.

Big Power was an easy 5-length winner in his first outing of the year here, beating such horses as First Bondend Lucky William at the 5 1/2 furlong distance in his second effort he went postward and odds-on favorite but finished third behind Navarette and Slash.

Both M. G. Skid and English Lad scored over good fields in their last previous appearances here. Blue Call finished third in the race won by English Lad and Miss Quibu was sixth behind Manassas in the Benton purse.

English Lad was fourth in that same event.

Others in the field were making their first starts here. Ban Sen won five races last year and Die Valkyrie, a former Denmark colt, won three.

Gail Harris Again Trying for First

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Smooth-swinging Gail Harris, who perennially tries to win a first base job with the New York Giants, again is off to a blazing spring start. This time, the 25-year-old Harris, who yesterday delivered the second homer for the game and driven across 12 runs in four Giant exhibition games, may be ready.

I'm more relaxed than I've ever been and I'm not pressing, said Harris after his three-run homer in the ninth gave the Giants a 9-3 triumph over the Baltimore Orioles. It was his second homer for the game and third of the cactus league campaign.

Harris, who batted .270 and belted 24 homers for Minneapolis of the American Assn. last season, slashed a bases-loaded single in the 10th to win for the Giants Sunday, also by a 9-8 count over the Cleveland Indians.

Ambassador Is Sent Into the Middle East

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower sent Ambassador James P. Richards to the Middle East today to discuss with the governments of 18 nations his plan for building new defenses against the pressures of Soviet communism.

In a departure statement, Richards declared that the President had instructed him "to present and discuss his proposals to promote peace, freedom and economic well-being of the area."

His first conferences are scheduled in Beirut, Lebanon, on Thursday.

The former chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee said "discussions will be held only with governments who wish them, and we will not try to force our views upon others."

His travel plans call for visiting 18 countries but his words made it apparent that if any country is not interested in discussing the new American "initiative," as Richards called it, he will not go there.

He said that authority granted by Congress in approving Eisenhower's Middle East plan "will enable us to undertake some new and more effective programs which will materially contribute to the strengthening of the area."

"It is only natural," Richards said, "that a new initiative such as the Presidents may not be completely understood in the first instance, and may even be misinterpreted in some quarters. I shall try to remove such misunderstandings if any have arisen."

The stage was set for his departure with the publication yesterday of a note to Russia rejecting a Soviet proposal for a joint Big Four policy declaration on the Middle East.

The United States declared in the note that it "would not wish to be party to an attempt by the great powers, as suggested by the U.S.S.R., to arrogate to themselves decisions on matters of vital importance to the nations of the Middle East."

It also said that under the Eisenhower plan approved by Congress and signed by the President last week, this country intends to undertake "genuine practical efforts" to secure peace in the region "in full cooperation with the Middle Eastern countries."

House to Ask Ike About Budget Cut

WASHINGTON — The House votes today on a plea to President Eisenhower for advice on where his $71,800,000,000 budget can be cut substantially.

The plea is embodied in a resolution approved yesterday by the Rules Committee and last Friday by the Appropriations Committee by partisan votes.

The House is expected to pass it over Republican opposition. Republicans have assailed it as a "back-passing" proposal to take Congress off the spot in a growing public demand for economy and tax reduction.

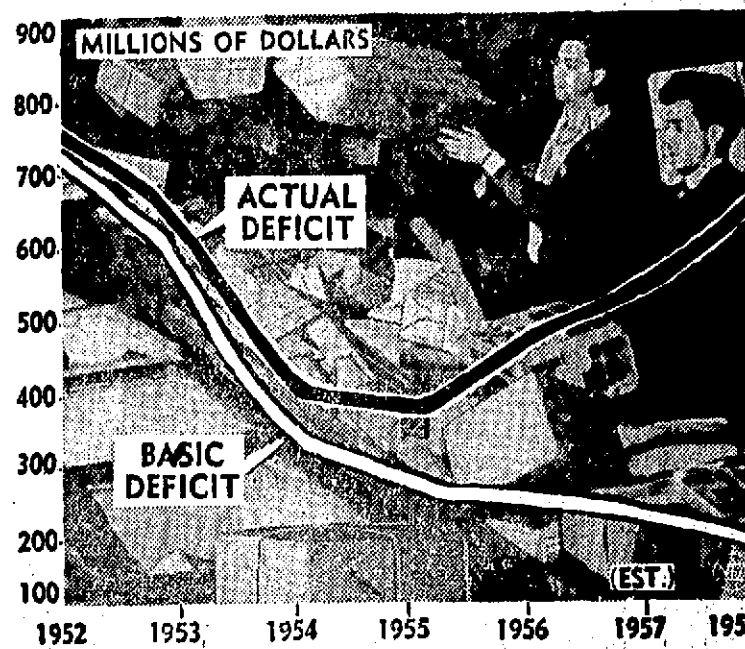

Democrats sponsored the resolution in what some conceded privately is a move to take the offensive in the economy drive. The House Republican Policy Committee and an independent group of 57 House Republicans previously had urged Congress to make substantial budget cuts.

Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the Appropriations Committee called the resolution "a very moderate, modest request."

He conceded the proposal was without precedent. But he said it also was without precedent for a president to send Congress a budget, and then indicate that it could be cut.

SAY AH — "Say ah," Dr. N. C. Ralston tells Minnie as he puts his stethoscope to the lady's tough hide. Instead, Minnie cuts loose with a trumpet that could be heard for blocks and left Dr. Ralston temporarily deaf. THE HOW OF POSTAL DEFICIT — Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield issued the graph above in connection with his recent warning that the nation's postal deficit will soon approximate a billion dollars a year unless postal rates, virtually unchanged since 1932, are raised to realistic levels. The basic deficit was 720 million dollars in 1952, last full fiscal year of the Truman administration. If that still held, new expenses would have raised the fiscal 1958 deficit to more than a billion dollars. But the inherited basic 720-million-dollar deficit has been whittled down to 178 millions for fiscal 1958, starting July 1. To this basic deficit must be added the new expenses, totaling 473 millions. This brings the actual deficit, according to the 1958 budget, to 651 millions.

Canisuis Next as N.C. Rips Yale in NCAA Play

By JOHN CHANDLER
The Associated Press

Powerful North Carolina was on its way to Philadelphia today to resume the hectic NCAA basketball tournament struggle and boasting a 280 record that dangerous little Canisuis College would love to smash.

The Tar Heels, the nation's No. 1 team, turned on the gas in the second half last night to thump Yale's Ivy League champions in the first round of the eastern NCAA regionals at New York 90-74.

Canisuis, of Buffalo, N. Y., humbled West Virginia, the Southern Conference champs, 64-56. Syracuse marched past Connecticut 82-76 in other games on the Madison Square Garden tripleheader.

At Columbus, Ohio, Notre Dame racked up its 10th straight victory by clipping Miami Ohio 89-77, while the Pittsburgh Panthers took a last-gasp verdict from Morehead (Ky.) 88-85 in the Mid-west regionals.

One contest was played in the West regional, with Oklahoma City University, trouncing Loyola of New Orleans 76-55 at Okla City.

This completed a field of 16 teams for the next phase of the annual college scramble Friday night. The Friday winners tangle Saturday, with four teams surviving for the semifinals and finals at Kansas City March 22 and 23.

Here's the pairings for Friday: Philadelphia, East regionals (17-6) and North Carolina (28-0) vs. Canisuis (21-5).

Lexington, Midwest regionals Kentucky (22-4) vs. Pitt (10-9) and Notre Dame (19-7) vs. Michigan State (15-7).

Greaves, Webb Fight Tonight

CHICAGO — Wilf Greaves, a young middleweight, with limited experience, has his sights set on Gene Fullmers title and figures the best way to meet the champion is by beating fourth-ranked Spider Webb in a 10-round bout at Chicago Stadium tonight.

Greaves, of Pittsburgh, who has had only 14 professional fights, is a subbing for Randy Sandy, who injured his left hand in training.

Webb, one of Chicago's brightest flistic prospects, has come along quickly since he left the Army a year ago. A member of the 1952 Olympic team, Spider has lost only in 21 pro fights and is riding a string of 9 straight victories, including 2 knockouts.

Greaves, 2, has an 8-5-1 record. Webb is a 3-1 favorite. ABC will telecast at 10 p. m. EST.

Oklahoma Team Looks Best in NAIA Tourney

KANSAS CITY — Southeastern Oklahoma, a well-regarded team before the NAIA basketball tournament started, looked even better as the second round of the week long competition began today.

If the savages from Durant, Okla., can keep 6-7 center Jim Spivey off the injury list, it appears that they have the equipment to go all the way.

Spivey played much of the season with a broken wrist but he scored 39 points last night as Southeastern humbled Northwest Nazarene of Nampa, Idaho, 82-58 to end play in the first round.

The 16 survivors of the 32-team field include all the pre-tournament favorites except third-seeded West Virginia Tech, which was upset Monday by unheard-of Villa Madonna of Kentucky. The most impressive teams in the first round included top-seeded Pacific Lutheran of Parkland, Wash., Western Illinois and Texas Southern.

In other games yesterday, Ball State defeated Troy State 98-70; Stetson University downed Nebraska State 100-84; Tennessee State eliminated Adverian College 87-69; Pacific Lutheran trimmed Elton College 76-61; Youngstown University whipped Westmont College 81-75; Western Illinois thrashed Southern State 101-70; and William Jewell defeated Adelphi 70-69 in overtime.

With Spivey on a scoring spree, Southeastern Oklahoma lost no time in turning its game with the Idaho, school to a rout. South eastern led 42-18 at the half and used reserves most of the second half.

This is the fourth straight tournament appearances for the hungry Oklahomans, who were final ists in 1955 and 1942 but have never won the championship.

In the night's closest battle, William Jewell rallied from a 10 point deficit to tie Adelphi at 67-67 in the last 6 1/2 minutes. The Missourians then won the overtime period 3-2 on a field goal and a free throw by Bob Carson. Today's eight game second schedule includes: 7:30 p. m. — Youngstown Ohio vs. Emporia State. 9 p. m. — Western Illinois vs. William Jewell

BIRDS OF A FEATHER
BRISTOL, Tenn. — (UP) — Ralph Feathers says he was not trying to prove that birds of a feather stick together when he had to be rescued twice from his burning feather bed.

Mrs. Christine Moore said she aroused Feathers after smelling smoke. Mrs. Moore helped Feathers put the fire out. Later, Joe Rudder also smelled smoke and burst into the apartment to find Feathers again snoring away in his feather bed. Cause of the second fire was blamed on smoldering feathers.
